

What makes it worth it

Written by Kara

Tuesday, 19 October 2010 16:42

It's days like these that remind me that it really is worth it. This morning, as I was doing math with Abbie, I sat there working with her and realized that I had taught her how to multiply fractions. Same feeling as last year, when I realized that I taught Emily how to read. I did this, not anyone else. My accomplishment, with a little help from my smart daughters. :)