Funniest thing happened today. Emily, our sweet little 4 year old, had a total of $0.33 and wanted me to take her to the store to buy something. When asked what she wanted to buy, she informed me that she wanted to buy a Tinkerbell phone. I had to reluctantly tell her that she needed more than $0.33. She then turned to her dad and said, "Daddy, will you give me some more money. Pleeese!", as she clasped her hands and looked adoringly up at her daddy. When asked where he would get the money, she ran upstairs and grabbed his change jar. How can you say no to that?
